

It is better to light a candle than to curse the darkness

Good morning to one and all present here. Today I Anubhav Roda of class XII-B is going to elaborate a phrase that it is better to light a candle than to curse the darkness.

The main meaning of the Phrase is better to do something about a problem than to just complain about it, Further, I would like to say that a candle is a small answer to a large direction, rather than moaning about the problem.

Today I as a student would like to tell you a true story of an India man who has placed an excellent example of the phrase. He is the man who carved a 110 meters tunnel though mountain after his wife died because no medical attention was brought to her in time due to mountain and he did not want anyone else to go though the same pain. It took 22 years and he single wantedly did that. Even government did not help him but he did it. He was awarded. The Padma Shri the most prestigious award of India.

He gave his interview in the famous reality show 'Satyamev Jayate'. He said that when I started my journey the people ignored me, when something got wrong they laughed out me, who I was at the best of my work they fought with me and when I'm done they set me as an example before the other people. That is the day when I felt that I won.

That man is none other than 'Dashrath Manjhi' The Mountain man of India.

So in the end I would like to conclude my speech by a request to all my friends that. It is better to find a solution of a problem than to complain about it.
